

News from Nursery

In Nursery this week, we were exploring ice and we did a science experiment to see how it melts. We had lots of fun hearing how the ice sounds under our feet.

We also created our own 'thank you' cards and thought about people in our lives that we would like to thank for different things.

